

PREDICT UPSET IN JAPAN'S CABINET; TWO MAY RETIRE

Resignation of War Minister
Jiro Minami, and Hinzakanazi Expected

NOW RECONCILED

Tokio Consents to U. S. Participation in League
Discussion

TOKIO, Japan, Oct. 20.—An upset in the Japanese cabinet involving the resignation of War Minister Jiro Minami was forecast here today as the outgrowth of the Sino-Japanese conflict in Manchuria. The vernacular newspaper Jiji declared that Minami and General Hinzakanazi, chief of staff of the Japanese army, would retire from the cabinet probably in December.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Days of misunderstanding between the American and Japanese Governments have ended with Tokio consenting to United States participation in discussions by the League of Nations of the Manchurian controversy.

Encouraged by Japan's change of mind on the question, Secretary of State Stimson is again looking expectantly toward the Orient for settlement of its own Chinese-Japanese difficulties. He hopes further steps to emphasize the world's opposition to war will be unnecessary.

These hopes were buoyed yesterday by Japan's diplomatic emissary to Washington. Late in the afternoon Ambassador Deuchel went to the State Department to convey to Secretary Stimson the information that Japan no longer objected to an American representative sitting with the League.

What interested the Secretary almost as much, though, was the Ambassador's comment upon the Manchurian conditions.

Deuchel predicted that a few more days without hostilities would virtually assure the peace which the leading nations of the world have sought so insistently. Forecasting that no further fighting would ensue, Deuchel said his Government was prepared to negotiate a settlement directly at any time and would withdraw all of its troops to the railway zone if guarantees of the safety of its citizens and their property were given.

Meanwhile, the Chinese legation here issued a statement picturing troubled Manchuria through the eyes of Robert E. Lewis, described as general secretary of the international Y. M. C. A.

"The Japanese army," Lewis said, "is trying to induce the Mongolian princes to sign away their rights and set up an independent Government under Japanese protection."

Bracken Post to Install Officers for Ensuing Year

At the regular monthly meeting of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 332, American Legion, to be held this evening in the post rooms on Radcliffe street, the new officers for the year 1931-32 will be installed by District Commander Leon Walt, of Royersford, Pa.

Commander Walt will be escorted to Bristol by Deputy District Commander Richard W. Echtenburg, a past commander of the local post.

The following officers will be installed:

Commander, Arthur F. Zug; senior vice-commander, Ralph B. Scheffey; junior vice-commander, Michael C. McCole; finance officer, William A. DeVoe; adjutant, William S. Riley; sergeant-at-arms, James Waters; chaplain, Robert B. Downing.

Retiring Commander George W. Croner states that every effort is being made to make this one of the most interesting meetings of the year and a large attendance of Legionnaires is expected to give encouragement to the incoming officers. In spite of present business conditions which are proving a severe handicap to all organizations Bracken Post for 1931 assisted its 1930 membership, thus assisting the national body in achieving the goal of "over one million members."

Following the meeting lunch will be served under the supervision of Mess Sergeant Terry Taffe.

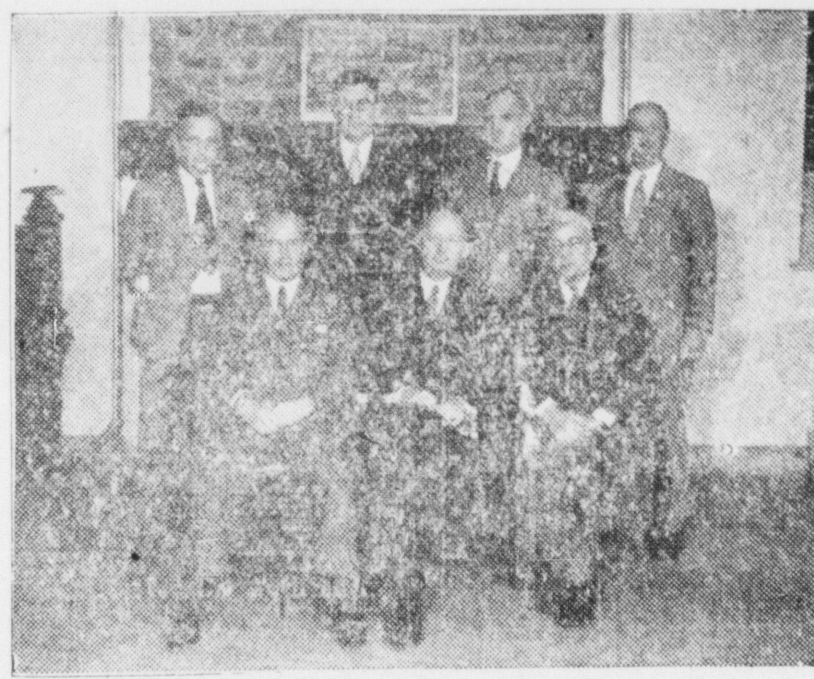

CHARLES EVANS BURIED

Funeral service was held in Philadelphia yesterday afternoon for Charles Evans, husband of Irene Evans, who died suddenly in Philadelphia, Friday night. Burial was made in Mount Moriah Cemetery. The deceased is survived by his wife; and two daughters, Dorothy and Katherine. Mrs. Evans is now making her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith, of 228 Monroe street.

MICHAEL SUTTON DIES

HULMEVILLE, Oct. 20.—Death early this morning claimed Michael Sutton, son of the late James and Hannah Sutton, at his home in Middletown Township. The deceased was 70 years of age. Burial will be made on Thursday in Beechwood Cemetery.

NEARLY $2,000 SECURED IN BOY SCOUT DRIVE

First Report Meeting Held at Home of V. V. VanSant,
Here

SHOW MUCH INTEREST

At the first report meeting in connection with Boy Scout Fund Drive, held at the home of V. V. VanSant, the committee reported $1,938.00 secured. Mr. VanSant in speaking of the campaign said he "felt confident that the people of Bristol would do their part as they have always done." In order to carry on Scouting in the 47 organized points of Bucks county for the next two year period, it is necessary that this amount be raised.

One of the last acts of the late Sheriff T. Hart Ross, was to send the following endorsement to the Hon. Hiram H. Keller, general chairman of the Boy Scout campaign. "I wish to say that I think the organization of the Boy Scouts of America was one of the finest movements ever made in this country toward the making of better citizens. It develops character and good sportsmanship in the boys and teaches them many things that no other group has been able to accomplish. An organization of this kind is for the betterment of our country and certainly deserves the support of the people."

The following budget covering the two-year period, 1932-1933, has just been released by Scout headquarters:

Buccoo Scout and Cub camps, $2,428.97. Summer and week-end maintenance of program and equipment. Headquarters Maintenance, $3,583.93. Service station for ships, troops, packs, men and boys. Business administration of records and finances. Pre-vocational and educational program, $2,204.28. Scoutcraft training for boys.

Field work, $4,748.52. Supervision of ships, troops and packs. Boy and man contacts.

Making Scouting available to every boy in Bucks county, $4,120.58. (Scouts, 16 to 18 years; Boy Scouts and Lone Scouts, 12 to 17 years, and Cubs, 9 to 11 years.)

Leadership training of Scoutmasters, Slippers and Culmasters, $1,891.97. Instruction courses to better lead boys.

Regional quota, and national charter fee, $150.00. Bucks County Council share of regional headquarters maintenance.

One year, $26,433.25; 1932-33, two years, $49,866.50.

Cost of campaign services, and records of subscriptions, $3,400.00. Balance needed to complete 1930, and 1931 program, $5,733.50.

1932-1933 budget objective, $50,000.

STATE NEWS

LEBANON.—The South Lebanon power station of the Metropolitan Edison Company found itself coping with an emergency as a result of serious damage caused by a large bird that flew too close to high tension wires leading into the plant.

The bird was reported to have a wing spread of ten or twelve inches. It flew parallel with the high voltage wires and the tips of its wings closed the circuit and caused an arc that traveled into the main transformer, where insulators were shattered, pins were melted away, and wires were parted.

The bird was electrocuted and fell with its wings singed. The mishap was noticeable throughout the immediate territory by a hum in the wires. When the fault occurred, all the current rushed to the spot. A flame that resulted aroused residents in the locality.

BACK FROM CALIFORNIA

Captain Lowell H. Smith and Edgar N. Gott, of Pine Grove, returned to their home on Monday from a month's trip to Los Angeles, California. The trip west was made in one of the Keystone Aircraft Corporation bombers, and the route was through St. Louis, to cross Texas and Arizona to California.

EDISON FUNERAL

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 20.—Thomas A. Edison, who was so conservative in his religious beliefs he would not go beyond admitting that there is a Supreme Intelligence, will be buried with Methodist Episcopal services.

The funeral will be held at 2.30 tomorrow from the inventor's home on top of the hill in Llewellyn Park. Interment will be in Rosedale Cemetery, a beautiful graveyard on the border line between Orange and West Orange.

Rev. Stephen J. Herten, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Maplewood, a little town two miles south of here, will conduct the funeral services.

FIRST ELECTROCUTION

Chester, Ill., Oct. 20.—"So long, boys." These were the final words of the first person ever to be electrocuted in Chester Penitentiary. Early today, Murley Johnson, 25, confessed murderer of a woman and her two children, died in the electric chair.

$50,000 JEWEL THEFT

Aboard Steamship "He de France."—A $50,000 jewel theft was under investigation today aboard the French liner, "He de France," en route from LeHavre to New York. The robbery victim is a wealthy American society woman, Mrs. P. J. Anderson, of Newport, R. I., whose stateroom was entered while she was in the dining salon.

RAISING CAPONE FUND

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 20.—With "Al" Capone facing a "Federal Rap," possibly 17 years in prison, Chicago's underworld, of which he is the supreme dictator, is going to the front for him with coin of the realm. A Capone fund aggregating $50,000 a week is being raised, it was learned today.

Mitzi Endom Celebrates Her Ninth Birthday at Party

Mitzi Endom, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Endom, of 349 Jackson street, was hostess at her parents' home on Monday afternoon from 3.30 to 5 o'clock to a group of her little friends in celebration of her ninth birthday anniversary.

The decorations were done in the tones of orange and black, redolent of the Halloween season, and the favors consisted of orange-colored baskets trimmed with black decorations and held a variety of candies.

In the competitive games, favors for prowess were given to Robert Baurath and Joseph Beswick.

The guests included: Vernon Hoyatt, Dessie Hoyatt, Margaret Cochran, Robert and Harry Baurath, Jr., Joseph and Robert Beswick, Betty Beswick and Catherine and "Sonny" Fuchs.

Mitzi was made the recipient of a number of lovely gifts as mementoes of the occasion.

Master Is Gone

"Spot," the cute little pup that would greet Thomas A. Edison every day the inventor took a walk at his home in East Orange, N. J., knew that his master's voice was stilled forever when this picture was taken. Unconsciously portraying the slogan, "His Master's Voice," which was used for the phonograph which Edison invented, the fox terrier shows how well he realizes that no longer will he hear the familiar voice.

PENN STATE CLASSES INCLUDES NEW COURSES

Extension Department to Include Business English and Correspondence

WILL OPEN IN BRISTOL

The Pennsylvania State College, Department of Engineering Extension, has announced that it has included Business English and Business Correspondence, and Elementary Accounting in the list of subjects offered in addition to the technical and engineering courses offered in past years. This has been done as a result of local demand for such subjects.

This will be the third year that the State institution has conducted classes in Bristol to supply the needs of local men and women interested in furthering their education. These classes were conducted here last year in technical and engineering subjects. The results were gratifying, and knowledge of them by the Aero Club of Pennsylvania was instrumental in having a request come to the College that such classes be held in Philadelphia for the benefit of men there interested in the aeronautical industry.

Classes will be held on Monday and Wednesday evenings from seven until nine o'clock for a period of fifteen class weeks. The instructors will be selected from local industries, the selection being based on knowledge in the field and the ability to handle the work in a practical manner. The following men acted as instructors last year: Frederick Jewett, Engineering Department, Keystone Aircraft Corp.; Alfred K. Schindewolf, Chief Draftsman, Keystone Aircraft Corp.; and Chas. H. Koch, Project Engineer, Keystone Aircraft Corp.

Part of the expense of this work is borne by the State. This is done to make it possible for men and women realizing the need of specialized training to obtain it, who are unable to attend college or business schools because of work.

Registration will be held at the Wood street school on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings from 7 until 9 o'clock this week.

16th Wedding Anniversary Marked by the Silbers

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Silber, of 202 Jefferson avenue, were hosts on Saturday evening, at their home in celebration of their 16th wedding anniversary.

The house was a bower of beauty in its artistic decorations. Orange and black tones of crepe paper streamers, favors and napkins, as well as pumpkins, corn stalks, ghosts and other characteristic reminders of the Halloween season, were profusely displayed about the large rooms of their home.

Dancing, music and games were enjoyed and the hosts were showered with lovely gifts.

The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. S. Light, the Misses Eva and Gladys Light, Harry Light, Mr. and Mrs. George Light and son, David, Mr. and Mrs. A. Trautman and daughter, Miss Phyllis Trautman, Irvin Kaufman, Jack Wolberg, Miss Anna Yellin, Miss Sophia Fleeter, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sussman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Dardar, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fleming and Miss Selma Kaufman, all of Philadelphia.

The entire party remained at the Silber residence over the week-end, and on Sunday, the party was feted at a dinner, held in honor of Mrs. Silber's father, S. Light's return to health, following a several months' very serious illness in the Graduate Hospital, Philadelphia.

YORK.—York's electric light service was interrupted recently when a raccoon was electrocuted.

The raccoon was enjoying a swim in the race of the Metropolitan Edison Company's plant at York Haven and became entangled with two high tension wires, resulting in interrupted service.

(By Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON CROSSING, Oct. 20.—In the shadow of Bowman's Hill close by the side of Pidecock's Creek the waters of which years ago turned the old mill wheel for members of the historic Thompson and Neely families, a tablet was unveiled yesterday afternoon on the Thompson-Neely House. The placing of the tablet on the Colonial stone structure, and the ceremonies attending same, were made possible by Bucks County Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The tablet informs the visitor to this hallowed spot that the Colonial dwelling was used as headquarters for Brigadier General Lord Stirling previous to the Battle of Trenton further telling that Captain William Washington and Lieutenant James Monroe were quartered there with him; as was also Captain James Moore, of the New York Artillery, who died at the Thompson-Neely house on December 25, 1776.

Mrs. Elizabeth Neely Grandy, of Norfolk, Virginia, daughter of the late Robert Johnson Neely, and great, great granddaughter of William and Elizabeth Thompson Neely, pulled the ribbon of red and white and blue, which lowered the folds of an American flag and brought to view the bronze tablet.

The descendant of the Neelys and Thompsons who were among the first ranking families in Bucks County during Revolutionary times, extended her thanks to the Washington Crossing Park Commission for restoration of her father's ancestral home, and expressed pleasure over the placing of the tablet upon the outer stone wall by Bucks County Chapter, D. A. R. Mrs. Grandy, in her charming manner, told of the generations of Neelys and Thompsons, and of the union of the two families. She stated that at present no descendants of this family bearing the name of Neely are located in Bucks County.

In bringing greetings to the gathering of more than 200 people, representing Bucks County Historical Association; Bucks County Chapter, D. A. R.; George Taylor Chapter, D. A. R. of Easton, and many other patriotic organizations, Mrs. Harriet W. Tomb, regent of the chapter thus marking the structure, referred to the untiring work of Colonel Henry D. Paxson, historian of the Washington Crossing Park Commission, who assisted the chapter materially in preparation for the day's event. Colonel Paxson, although unable to attend the ceremonies, delved into many records in order to make the tablet inscription historically correct, said the regent.

"We have come here today," continued Mrs. Tomb, "to honor the men who sacrificed and died for their country, and to again pledge our allegiance to our flag. . . . May we serve as their ambassadors to a better-living and a better-thinking America."

The address of welcome was given by Thomas Scott, of Bristol. In part Mr. Scott said: "We are all well aware of the lawlessness that is rampant in our land today. And it is up to your organization and to all organizations constructed on similar lines to inculcate in the hearts of the people a love of country, and teach them

Will Tell About 'Phones In Community Life

HULMEVILLE, Oct. 20.—Stories woven around the value and need of the telephone in every kind of community in this day, will be given in motion picture form at the monthly meeting of the Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association in Henry's Hall, Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

The films are being shown through the courtesy of the Bell Telephone Company, and depict in a most interesting manner the many uses to which the phones are put, show repair crews at work, and picture the way in which help is summoned during a great conflagration.

The pupils in any one room of the local school having the largest number of parents represented at this meeting will be treated later.

Ice cream will be sold after the session.

proper observance and love of our laws."

In the brief service of dedication of a George Washington Bi-centennial Tree, Mrs. Tomb remarked that "We honor the battle that for all time ended our fight for liberty; and honor the memory of the hero who led the forces in that day." The tree which has been planted upon the plot is an American elm. A vocal solo, "The Tree," by Kilmer, was given by Percy J. Ford, of Bristol.

Representing the Bucks County Historical Society at the unveiling ceremonies, Dr. B. F. Fackenthal, Jr., of Hockessin, brought to the minds of those assembled, some of the deeds of valor, and the sacrifices made by the gallant soldiers and their officers in those early, trying days of the colonies. Other shrines in Bucks County were referred to by Dr. Fackenthal, and then he continued with an account of the early families living upon the site where the ceremonies of yesterday were held. The address was filled with splendid historical material relative to the early days of the country, in the section now designated as Bucks County, this state.

The bugle call, marking the beginning of the program, was given by Donald VanArtsdalen, of Doylestown. Mrs. J. H. Hoffman, of Doylestown, vice regent of Bucks County D. A. R., gave the invocation, followed by a salute to the flag, led by Mrs. Isaac J. VanArtsdalen, organizing regent.

Mr. Ford, Bristol, led the assemblage in the singing of "America" and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Wreaths were placed on Revolutionary graves along the historic Delaware River, a short distance from the Thompson-Neely House, later in the afternoon.

Five descendants of the families for whom the house is named, were in attendance at the program, wending their way from a distance to the home of their forefathers.

The members of the committee, installed with the D. A. R., which had charge of the program were: Mrs. J. Herman Barnes, Jr., Mrs. Horace Effrig, of Newtown; Mrs. Samuel Paxson, of Lumberville; Mrs. Frederick Clymer, Mrs. Isaac J. VanArtsdalen, Mrs. Warren Ely, of Doylestown; Mrs. Earl Tomb, of Bristol.

The second annual Homemakers' School to be conducted by The Bristol Courier will be held on the evenings of November 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th in St. James's Parish Building, Wood and Walnut streets.

A noted lecturer-demonstrator will be present each evening and give talks and demonstrations.

INTERNATIONAL ROCK GARDEN

(By "The Stroller")

Rightfully proud of her International Rock Garden is Mrs. Meta Mershon, of Radcliffe street.

The miniature plot is attractive with its small plants, its silvery pond, statues, animals, etc. But the strangest part about the entire affair is that Mrs. Mershon during her wide travels has secured the plants and stones from the following places:

Ivy, cemetery of the Covenanters, Scotland; cactus, Mainz, Germany; dove and gourd, Venice; alligator, Florida; "Bruin," Bernese Switzerland; Stones from Colosseum, at Rome; Anne Hathaway's Garden; tomb of Shelley and Keats; Rome; home of Anne Boleyn; Temple of Vesta; Pantheon; Vatican; Caesar's Palace; Catacombs; Appian Way; Roman Forum; Bernese in Switzerland; Gulf of Mexico; Temple of Minerva, in Milano; Windsor Castle and Hampton Court, in England; tomb of Napoleon, in France; Gardens of Fountains of Louis XIV; Kenilworth, England; Venice, Italy; the Adriatic Sea; Mainz, Germany; and the following States: Tennessee, Connecticut, Virginia, the Carolinas, Florida, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania.

DOCTORS WANTED

There are 1,500,000 persons employed in the United States in connection with the treatment and prevention of disease and sickness. This gives the nation more medical attendants, including physicians, dentists and nurses, in proportion to population than any other country, yet there are sections in which the shortage is acute because of the very uneven geographical distribution of these agencies.

At the present time the country finds the small communities and rural areas undersupplied with doctors and nurses, while the large centers of population are oversupplied. Secretary Wilbur called attention to this situation at the recent meeting of the national committee studying the high cost of medical service.

Young medical students can be told of the glorious service the country doctor may render humanity and of the soul-stirring sacrifices the country practitioner is invited to make, but that won't divert the stream of young doctors pouring into the cities and larger towns. If the people in the small town and on the farms want more doctors they must reverse the old order and make the sacrifices instead of asking "Doc" to make them. Doctors were driven to the cities, not lured to them.

While every physician and surgeon, no matter how great, has his charity cases there seems to be an inviolable tradition among some rural folk that doctors should never refuse to answer a "call of mercy" and never be compensated for their services.

When country doctors are well paid and shown some consideration as to office hours the country will again be well doctored.

Heaven won't mean much to an efficiency expert. It's just a continuation of loafing.

CROYDON

Marvin Collins, of Wyoming avenue, enjoyed a trip to New York on Saturday, where he was a spectator at the football game between Penn and Columbia freshmen. Marvin is guard of the Penn Fresh, but owing to a sprained leg received in a game during the week was unable to play on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foerst and children, are enjoying their new home, Maryland and Christy avenues.

At the southeast corner of State Road and Cedar avenue, the old Vandergrift home, which was recently bought by William Johnston, has been remodeled, painted, and cement steps added.

Mr. and Mrs. McNitt, of State Road, were visitors at the home of relatives in Hulmeville Saturday evening.

The party given at the fire house by Mrs. Scharg Saturday night was a decided success. The house was crowded and the music delightful. The broom dance and an Irish reel made much merriment. Refreshments of coffee and cake were served. Guests from Philadelphia, Bristol and Croydon comprised the party.

Mr. and Mrs. William Seibold, of Cedar avenue, left Sunday morning for Canada where they will travel for one week, and expect to return Saturday.

Those having cars are asked to meet at Wilkinson Memorial M. E. Church this evening, 7.30, and those not having cars will be cared for if they wish to attend the evening services for the late Rev. George C. Shoe.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bowyer, formerly of Washington avenue, are now making their home in Philadelphia, where Mr. Bowyer is employed.

Arrest Darby Pair; Robbed Several Places

Hutchinson, of Buckingham township, that a Buckingham township house owned by Miss Aleda Druding, a Delaware county school teacher, had been robbed.

Private Toy received information from another resident of the township, H. K. Mellendorf, of Holcomb, who had seen a wrecked automobile truck near the Druding house Friday night, and had seen a man who was slightly injured in the smash-up, trying to fix the truck. The truck was loaded with household goods. Mellendorf gave Private Toy the license number of the truck and a check-up Saturday by the officers led them to Darby. Mellendorf told the police that when he asked the injured man if he wanted to be taken to a doctor, the stranger said "No, I want to get back to Philadelphia." Later the officers found that Frank Hardy, of Buckingham, had towed the wrecked truck to Darby late Friday night.

The license numbers took the police to the home of Harry P. McIlhenny, 707 Walnut street, Darby, the owner of the truck. There Trooper Toy saw a man working on the truck. This man was Wendling and when Wendling saw the officer he started to run. Trooper Toy gave chase and finally stopped him.

Trooper Toy then went to McIlhenny's house but found that the owner of the truck was not at home. Mrs. McIlhenny was turning a dress in the stove and police believe that it was this dress that was used by the injured man to wipe off the blood stains. The charred dress was taken out of the stove and brought back to Doylestown to be used as evidence.

Wendling was brought back to the Doylestown sub-station Saturday night where he confessed to the Druding robbery. He then took the police back to his home in Darby where they found the stolen goods from two other homes.

Dies of Injuries Rec'd In Auto Accident

ka told the officer that he did not see Radcliffe give any signal that he was going to turn out of the line of traffic, but that he did, directly in front of him, too quickly for Zarka to avoid striking the Radcliffe car.

The Radcliffe car was completely demolished. The injured man was rushed to the Doylestown Emergency Hospital and immediately transferred to the Abington Memorial Hospital, where he died about six hours later.

Linford Rinker, of Mechanics Valley, who was an eye witness to the accident, told police that he did not see Radcliffe give any signal that he was about to make a left-hand turn.

The survivors of Radcliffe include the widow; two daughters, Mrs. Charles A. Rowe, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Claude E. Case, of 1211 Locust, N. Y.; one son; Robert Radcliffe, of Newark, N. J.; three sisters, Mrs. Emily Allen, of Ambler; Mrs. Harvey Hartzel, of Chalfont, and Mrs. William S. Henson, of Germantown; and two brothers, Paul R. Radcliffe, of Nutley, N. J., and Stephen Radcliffe, of Newshaminy.

The deceased was a member of the Doylestown Presbyterian Church and the Doylestown Mason Lodge.

BEAVER FALLS—A hunt is on in this region for two mountain lions after they were reported seen twice within a few weeks.

The animals were first reported in Brighton Township and later near Patterson Heights, Beaver County.

"Nerves Nearly Wrecked My Mind; Couldn't Sleep"

"Now I Sleep Like a Child"

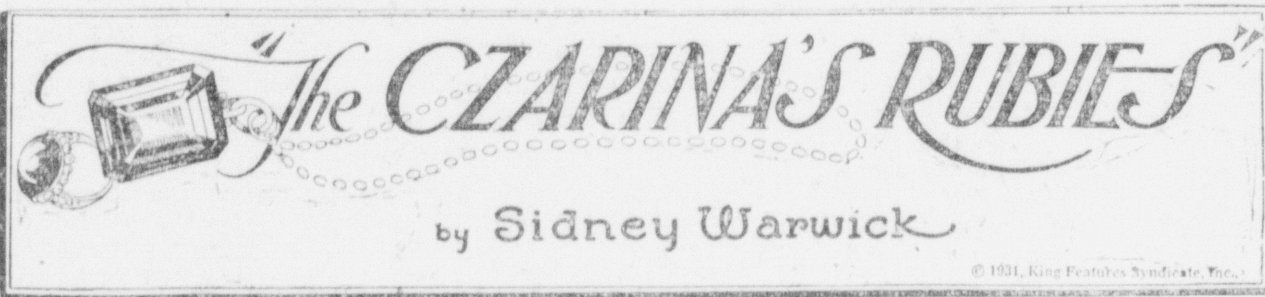

"I nearly went mad with sleeplessness," writes Mrs. Frances Trimble. "It was so bad that I hardly slept a year. I was terribly nervous & cranky, but the very first dose of Vreem made me feel steady and calm and that night I slept soundly."

Nervous people who try Vreem the first time say it is the greatest relief they have found in years. No wonder! Vreem is a super-nerve remedy developed during the War to relieve the shattered nerves of shell-shock soldiers.

Now it is being made available every nervous person and it brings quick relief even in cases so bad that other remedies fail entirely. Yet wonderful as it is, it contains no dangerous drugs.

You needn't be nervous any longer. You can get sound sleep of a child. You can be free from nervous headaches and nervous indigestion, nervous heart palpitations. Get Vreem today. Sleep fine tonight. Feel good tomorrow.

Vreem is guaranteed to positively delight you or your money refunded. At Hoffman's Cut Rate Store.—(A)

At Monksilver, a country place outside London, Paul Federoff is slain after carrying the Czarina Rubies from Russia. The murderers fail to find the gems, which therefore must be hidden in the house. Frank Severn, who entrusted the rubies to Federoff in Russia, returns to England, is abducted and carried unconscious to Monksilver.

Meanwhile his friend, Jim Wynter, meets beautiful Katharine Faring, rightful owner of the rubies as heiress to the Russian prince who lost his life saving them from a mob. Once a concert violinist, she has been reduced to penury by an injury to her wrist.

Katharine suggests to Wynter that Severn may be imprisoned at Monksilver and he goes there at night, to find Severn's servant. Creyke, dead from a stab wound in a car inside the grounds. Hearing a groan within the house, he steals in, is attacked and falls downstairs. Hours later he regains consciousness in the house of a Dr. Martell, whose stepdaughter, Helen, attends him. Friends call for Wynter.

NOW GO ON

CHAPTER XX

Without wasting time on explanations, Jim Wynter went upstairs to make a hurried change. When he came down ten minutes later it was to find a just-arrived Sant, too, in the drawing-room.

"Dr. Martell and I, as it happens, had no need of an introduction; met at a city banquet quite lately," Sant cried in his booming, boisterous voice. "But what's this I hear, Wynter, about your being brought here drugged?"

"I'll tell you all about it in the car," Wynter said. He shook hands with Helen. "Good-by and thank you so much, Miss Blair."

"Helen and I hope you'll come and see us again, Mr. Wynter," Martell said as he walked with his guests to the door.

"Thanks very much. Of course there's nothing I'd like better," Wynter lingered behind, as Sant and the Graysons walked toward the gate, to thank his host warmly. But Martell cut him short with his pleasant laugh.

"Oh, nonsense, my dear fellow. It was a pleasure, of course. Let me know if you have good news of your friend Severn. Good-by."

And flourished a genial hand in smiling farewell as Wynter glanced back from the gate.

A GOOD ACTOR

It was curious how Dr. Martell's face seemed to change as he turned to go back into the house. A queer smile had crept into it. A smile that had nothing in it of that kindly good-humored quality that Jim Wynter had found so pleasantly likable.

Jim Wynter passed out through the gate to the two waiting cars to find the Graysons and Sant impatient for his news.

So far they knew little more than that he had been brought in a drugged condition to this house. Of Creyke's fate they had evidently not heard a word from Dr. Martell whilst he had been upstairs changing.

"Jim, I've been suggesting to Mr. Sant that he should drive back with us; I expect he's as keen as we are to hear what's been happening to you," Milly said. "But I understand you want to see the Richmond police first."

"Yes, I've got to see them—and then go with 'em to that house where I was knocked out. I'm sorry, Milly, but I'm afraid it means your driving home alone, because I rather want Bill to come along with Sant and me."

Milly pouted. "But it won't be very much fun for me to drive home alone. Why shouldn't I come along, too?" she demanded.

"I fancy Monksilver's about the last place you'll want to go to," Wynter said gravely, "when I tell you that murder was done there last night."

SHOCKED

"A murder at Monksilver!" broke in Sant, his face like Billy Grayson's suddenly startled, whilst Milly gave a little gasp.

"Murder by those men who drugged me. And probably we shall find the dead man still there. It's unlikely the crime will have been discovered yet behind the gates of that empty house."

"You said you'd traced Severn to Monksilver," cried Sant—"you don't mean it's Severn, that dead man?"

Wynter shook his head, and Sant's startled face showed a swift relief.

"No, not Severn. The man who drove Severn to Monksilver."

Milly had lost all desire to accompany them after this news. She drove off alone, whilst Bill and Wynter got into Sant's car.

"Sant, that dead man was someone you knew," Wynter said, as they started—"Creyke?"

"Creyke? My God! Sant turned a suddenly white, half incredulous face to him. "But what should Creyke be doing at Monksilver? And he was the man who drove Severn there?"

"Yes. They passed me in Richmond. And I haven't a doubt that Severn was drugged. Unconscious anyway. Was Creyke in the conspiracy against him? And yet, if an accomplice of theirs, why should these men have killed him?"

"But what made you think of Monksilver?" demanded Sant suddenly. "Why should you have guessed Creyke was driving there?"

"Oh I knew Monksilver was a house belonging to Severn—and made notorious by the murder of that Russian."

Wynter did not refer to the Czarina Rubies, supposedly lying hidden at Monksilver; he must get Katharine's permission before speaking of what so far had been a secret between her and Frank Severn. Nothing of that queer story behind the crime had come out at the inquest on the murdered man. But of course the police would have had to be told of those jewels. They might prove a valuable clue, if the unknown men who had kidnapped Severn were the same men who had murdered his messenger, Federoff.

INCREDULOUS

"There's no caretaker now at Monksilver," Sant said. "You see, no one would stay at the place after that tragic affair some weeks ago. The keys are with a local firm of house agents—we'll call for them on our way," Sant paused. Then suddenly: "I suppose you are dead sure of your facts, Wynter?"

Wynter stared at him. "How do you mean—sure?" he demanded.

"Well, you were drugged—and we all know drugs will sometimes play queer tricks on the mind," Sant said bluntly.

"You mean I may have imagined it all? A sort of De Quincey nightmare?" The younger man's voice was amused.

"Oh, I don't say that, since you're so positive. Still it does seem a bit incongruous that, if it really was at Monksilver you were drugged, these men should have troubled to drive you all the way to Staines, dump you in a doctor's hands. Murderers aren't usually so surprisingly considerate."

"Well, it's not the only thing that's surprising or puzzling in this affair," retorted Jim Wynter drily. "I shall be only too glad if you can prove me mistaken about that poor chap's death."

Richmond was reached. The car drew up outside the police station. Sant happened to know the inspector on duty.

"Good afternoon, inspector. This is my friend Mr. Wynter who has a rather startling statement to make. By the way no murder in this neighborhood has been reported to you today, I suppose?" Sant asked.

The inspector looked surprised.

"No. What do you mean, Mr. Sant?"

"Well, Mr. Wynter believes one to have been committed about midnight not far from here. But he'll tell you himself."

QUESTIONS

And once again Jim Wynter had to recount his experiences.

"And you say you found the gates of the drive chained up again after the car had passed through?" the inspector asked.

"Yet it happens to be a Yale padlock—one that I don't think even an expert would find easy to pick and relock again," put in Sant. "The only key to it is at Faulkinds, the estate agent people here."

"So that was why you were a bit skeptical about my story. Sant was it?" cried Wynter. "It does seem rummy. It will be interesting to learn from Faulkinds if any one has applied to view the house lately."

"I'll beg a lift in your car, Mr. Sant, and we'll go on to Monksilver straightaway," said the inspector, giving instructions to one of his men to follow on his bicycle.

At the house-agents office, where they called for the keys, Sant was informed that not one solitary application had been made to view Monksilver since the murder of that Russian there had given the house a bad name, and that the keys had not been out of their possession. The clerk was both emphatic on that point and surprised at the question.

Sant did not explain why he had put the question.

They drove on to Monksilver to find the gates still chained up, secured as Sant had said by an intricate Yale padlock.

It could not have been much more than ten minutes after the car had passed through these gates last night that he had reached them, Jim Wynter remembered—and within those ten minutes that padlock had been unfastened and relocked, and Creyke come by his death. A duplicate key must have been used; quite obviously in that brief space of time such a lock could not have been first picked and then closed again.

New Discovery Makes Possible New Vick Plan of Home-Control of Colds

REDUCES "COLDS-TAX"

A quarter century ago Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern and better method of treating colds — externally. Now, Vick Chemists develop a new preparation — Vicks Nose and Throat Drops — based on a new idea in preventing colds. A perfect ally to VapoRub, it makes possible the new Vick Plan for better Control of Colds in the home — and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax."

Here is the Plan:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds — (Crowded indoor places — stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms — sudden temperature changes — wet and cold) — that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds" — use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens — when you feel that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passage — a few drops spent several days last week at the home of the Misses Lippincott, of 411 Radcliffe street.

LONG NAMES WHICH START WITH "BA" ARE GIVEN WOOLIES

Wool Jerseys Are Prominent at Headquarters of All Big Designers

By ALICE LANGELEIR (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Oct. 20.—The ba-ba black sheep of babyhood rhymes has nothing on the new woolies coming out for winter wear, nearly all of them bearing fantastic names beginning with "ba".

There is "bacossa," a soft tweed-like wool that is making many costumes and warm frocks; bajoryl, bajella, bajelles and bagheera, a sheer crepe type of velvet warranted not to crush.

Ribbed treatments are another important fabric note. Ribbed jerseys that look like corduroy from a distance and corduroy itself come for coats and suits at Vionnet's and Schiaparelli's. Velours St. Hubert is ribbed and transparent velvet. Ribbed silks include mattona and satin pique which comes usually in black and white.

Wool jerseys are prominent at all the big designers. Poiret and Worth are even favoring silk jersey for afternoon and evening gowns in black and white. Others make sport costumes of heavy tricots which look as if they are handknit.

Djersabou is a fine bouclette jersey and djersografin a pebbly one and djersabrillabure looks like a knickered tweed.

For evening, fabric novelties include "satin adorable" and a chiffon with mother-of-pearl reflections, taffeta failles and dull velvets. Lanvin is launching printed velvets for afternoon and laces with the pattern embroidered in dull peau d'ange thread.

ALLEN TOWN — Master Jimmy Bausch, with a summer home and his own menagerie at Locust Crest, added poultry raising to his hobby and recorded the unusual when a brood hatched by a big mother goose turned out to be guinea chicks.

Jimmy was looking for a flock of little goslings and waited for the birds to develop before he decided the goose had fooled him.

PERSIAN INFLUENCE SHOWN IN FEMININE FASHIONS FOR FALL

Harmonious Lines and A Galaxy of Soft Colorings Are Attractive

By ALICE LANGELEIR

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) PARIS, Oct. 20.—Persia has come to Paris this autumn by way of a beautiful new Oriental influence on feminine fashions, resulting in harmonious lovely lines and a galaxy of soft colorings copied from old Persian brocades and reproductions of the brocades themselves.

Paton who first put forth this Persian influence, is preferring Persian reds, dim and coppery, Persian green, which is dull and yet bright, and a deep Persian brown (caroubier), which replaces black for this dress-maker this year.

Full-length belted afternoon coats have Persian tunic effects and gowns are gored to have an outward sweep of line. The three-quarter coat in handsome brocades is used for luxurious velvet afternoon ensembles.

Wool serge with a tiny white stitch embroidered into it, making a white fleck, is used for several new coat-frocks with novel neck-lines. They button down the front with an irregular movement and a narrow braid and Persian embroidery trims the sleeves or is sometimes used for the whole of them.

"A Thousand and One Nights" is the appropriate name for a re-embroidered gold lame fitted jacket, with long fur cuffs and collar of rich brown. The mouseline trappé velours gown to wear beneath it is called "Shereazade."

Particularly Persian is an evening gown of Persian lame with satin ribbon trimming which repeats the melon tones.

There is an interesting new sleeve of the leg o' mutton type which is of Persian origin and modern interpretations of old Persian headgear come by way of delightful little hats or caps. These are fitting and slightly oblong in shape, with a high close cuff all around or at one side. Asrakhan fur is occasionally used for the trimming.

THE ATTENTION of thousands of Bristol people with wants of all kinds to satisfy is centered upon the Classified Section. They will read any message you may put there.

BENSALEM ELEVEN IS DEFEATED BY LANGHORNE

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 20.—Bensalem high was defeated for the third consecutive time by Langhorne High eleven at the latter's home field Friday. The score was 34-0.

Bensalem has failed to score a point in any of its football games this year. They failed to follow up with interference after they had secured possession of the ball.

Bensalem will play Newtown next Friday at Eddington field. They will attempt to break into the even column by defeating their opponent on that day. Season tickets can be secured from the office or from a student who is selling them. A season ticket will admit one to all athletic contests held in the year 1931-32.

SON IS BORN

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson are rejoicing over the birth of a son which arrived Saturday morning at the private hospital of Dr. J. Fred Wagner. Both mother and son are doing nicely.

HIGH SCHOOL JAY VEE'S WIN OVER LANGHORNE

Captain "Joe" Flatch led his Junior Varsity warriors to victory yesterday 7 to 0. The game was played on the high school field, here.

The game opened with Langhorne kicking to Bristol's 25 yard line, where "Ray" Pickering returned the pigskin to midfield. A series of line bucks with no gain forced the Cardinals to kick.

The visitors tried a few line plunges but to no advantage. They then threw a long pass which Girotti, a Cardinal back, intercepted. He ran 40 yards before he was brought down to earth. The visitors then held Bristol from crossing the goal line.

Late in the second quarter Girotti sliced off tackle to make Bristol's on y touchdowns. Spencer kicked the extra point.

In second half Langhorne made a desperate effort to cross Bristol's goal line. When the game ended Langhorne had the ball on Bristol's two yard line.

Grant Company Increases Working Staff 165 Men

During the first nine months of the year the W. T. Grant Company added 165 young men to its list of men in training for promotion in the Grant group of stores.

The steady expansion of the W. T. Grant Company demands an ever-increasing number of trained men as managers and field executives.

The 165 men who have been added have been put in line for promotion to new positions and for positions which future expansion will create.

Twenty-six states are represented in the list of the homes of these men. New York coming first with 35, Massachusetts second, with 20, Pennsylvania and New Jersey tied for third with 17. The future executives come from states as widely separated as Maine and Texas, Florida, Rhode Island, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Indiana, Utah.

It is the practice of the W. T. Grant Company to promote only from within its own ranks. With the exception of technical men every executive, department head, field supervisor, district officer and store manager is a graduate of the Grant school of experience. Upon being affiliated with the Grant Company men are assigned to the stores as floor men and earn promotion on proven merit.

They are transferred from store to store gaining not only additional Grant experience but a wide point of view of market conditions of the United States. At the present time there are 471 young men in the course of training in the various branches of the Grant stores.

During the current year the Grant Company, with its stores already opened and with those to be opened before Christmas, will have added nearly seventy stores to its list. Plans contemplate the opening of nearly one hundred stores during the ensuing year. This expansion means that promotion to positions of responsibility and remuneration will be rapid for those men who prove their worth.

NORRISTOWN—There is a Santa Claus and Howard Thomas, a former Norristown high school athlete, still believes it.

Thomas, watching his alma mater play Pottstown High School recently lost his wallet, containing $65 in cash, including part of the day's receipts from an ice company which he operates. He figured it a very bad day despite the fact Norristown won quite handily.

Imagine his surprise when the money came through the mail in an envelope, post-marked Norristown.

A note in the envelope read: "Didn't know what to do with the money, so am sending it back to you."

CARDS TONIGHT

Tonight the Knights of Columbus will hold a card party in their home at 8.30. "500" and pinochle will be played and many prizes have been procured. Refreshments will be sold. The Knights of Columbus are planning to give a season prize this year. Tonight is the first card party given this season, and the idea is to keep an account of the scores of those attending. At the end of the season the individual scores will be added and the person receiving the highest season score will be awarded a valuable prize.

Mobilgas now has CLIMATIC-CONTROL*

CHANGE—change—change! Hot, cold, sun, storm. Mountain height, sea level. Dry air, damp air. Tough pull or easy jaunt. All these changing conditions affect "engine heat," to which gasoline is extremely sensitive. • So Mobilgas, with Climatic-Control, is now pre-adjusted to adapt itself to every variation in "engine heat," caused by constantly changing driving conditions. • This means that Mobilgas, regardless of these changes, will give you the highest usable level of performance. And all without increase in price! Fill up today and let your car decide.

VACUUM OIL COMPANY, INC.

*CLIMATIC-CONTROL is the pre-adjustment of the specifications of Mobilgas so that it automatically adapts itself to the variations in "engine heat," even as high as 400° F., caused by changes in temperature, altitude, humidity and road "pull." In the Mobilgas Research Laboratories, all these changing climatic conditions have been "manufactured" in hot and cold testing chambers. Here engine tests are conducted day after day. The road performance of Mobilgas is thus scientifically verified at different "engine heats," and its specifications are pre-adjusted before it is placed on sale in your locality.

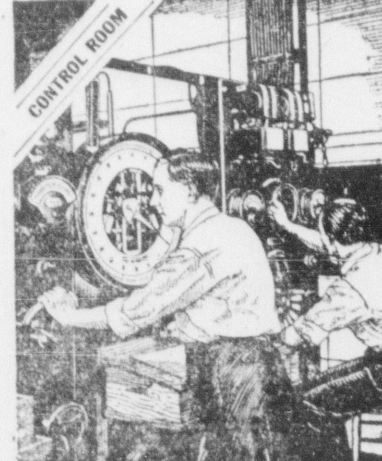

HOT-ROOM TESTS (at right)—in this specially constructed chamber, electric heating units, controlled by thermostats, duplicate the summer temperatures of your locality. Tests are made at as high as 150 degrees F., hotter than the hottest day you have ever known. Here the "hot weather" pre-adjustment for Climatic-Control in Mobilgas is scientifically verified.

COLD-ROOM TESTS (at left)—By turning off the heat units and turning on refrigerating apparatus, the engineers reproduce driving temperatures as low as 20 degrees below zero. This verifies scientifically the "cold weather" pre-adjustment for Climatic-Control.

(Drawings from actual photographs made at Mobilgas Research Laboratories, Paulsboro, N. J.)

"ENGINE HEAT" READINGS (at right)—On this control panel, equipped with the most delicate instruments, the exact performance of Mobilgas, under the different "engine heats" produced by the hot and cold room tests, is measured and recorded. With this exact knowledge, the specifications of Mobilgas are then pre-adjusted to provide it with the element of Climatic-Control, a scientific achievement.
